What a great way to start the New Year by launching our second ever lot from the Rambagirakawa growing group in Rwanda! The name Rambagirakawa means, 'Professional women owning and growing coffee trees', and the group itself is made up of 70 women who supply their coffee to the Dukunde Kawa co-op. In the off season, you can find these women busily weaving traditional baskets for sale. Not only is this group doing great things within their community, they are producing some top notch coffee as well! This year's lot fresh off the grind has lovely floral and sweet apple aromatics. Pink lady apple-like notes can be found in the cup as well, and are joined by notes of cherry and a lovely honeyed sweetness. There's a lot to like about this coffee, from supporting women growers to excellent quality! If you love coffees from Rwanda, it would be hard to go wrong with this selection!

Variety Info:

Red Bourbon: Red Bourbon is a natural mutation of its parent variety, Bourbon. It's prized for its fruity and sweet profile, though it's a less popular option to grow due to its low yield and susceptibility to disease and poor growing conditions.
